Subject: A CSE proposal to organize specialized training programme and exposure visit on framing strategies for construction and demolition (C&D) waste and dust management for clean air in the non-attainment cities

Dear Mr Pandey

I am writing with regard to our earlier discussion on the matter of knowledge support for specific strategies for air pollution control. As the clean air action plans for Kolkata and Howrah are now in place, it seems prudent to take the deep dive into specific strategies for detailed framing of strategies and capacity building of the concerned implementing agencies. I am therefore following up on the suggestion that we design and execute a special training programme along with exposure visit on dust control from construction and recycling and reuse of construction and demolition waste for a select group of officials from the concerned departments.

We are therefore specially designing a specialized training programme along with an exposure visit for a small but select group of officials from West Bengal. This programme will aim to introduce the participants to C&D waste management infrastructure and construction dust control practices in Delhi and will facilitate interaction with experts who have been engaged with some of the best practices. This would also include visits to the C&D waste recycling facility, C&D waste collection system, and projects where recycled C&D waste has been utilized and construction projects that have implemented advanced dust control methods. We will organize this on 6-7th June 2019 in Delhi.

For this customized programme Centre for Science and Environment will be happy to support the full cost of the travel and stay for two nights in Delhi for 10 officials concerned with this matter. We will be grateful if you help to nominate 10 officials from the concerned departments.

Construction and demolition waste and dust management is part of the clean air action plan for targeted reduction in air pollution in our cities that are witnessing massive construction boom. Cities are required to act on this under the C&D Waste Management Rules 2016 of Ministry of Environment and Forests and Climate Change. As several cities are embarking on C&D waste management, there is considerable scope of experience and knowledge sharing to strengthen local action. Delhi has set up recycling facilities and it would be worthwhile to see and learn how this is working on ground. Useful insights can be gained by interacting with the facility operators and area experts. The recently approved action plans have highlighted these areas of interventions.

We look forward to your cooperation and support. Thanking you in anticipation

Technical Conference on Waste to Energy and Resource Conservation (WERC-2019) – Challenges, Technologies and Adoption

May 30-31, 2019 at Jacaranda Hall
India Habitat Centre, New Delhi

India being the largest growing economy and housing 130 crores people faces a biggest challenge of Waste Management. Rapid Urbanisation, industrialization and changes in living standards over the decades has resulted in increased waste generation in Indian cities, leading to enhanced threats to the environment & health. The country has over 5000 cities & towns which generate Municipal Solid Wastes, Industrial Wastes, Hazardous Wastes, Agricultural Wastes, Bio-Medical Wastes & E-Wastes etc. Industries itself generate huge amount of wastes like paper, glass, metals, cable, wires, plastics goods, e-wastes, oil sludges, emulsions, spent oil, fly ash, pharma, medical wastes, straws - biomass waste, poultry & livestock wastes etc. These wastes can be used by Waste to Energy (WtE) Technology operators, developers, equipment suppliers to present their demonstrated capabilities in design, supply, erection and commissioning of plants & machinery for generating substantial quantity of decentralized energy and conserving resources through recycling and reuse.

The main focus of the two days Technical Conference on Waste to Energy and Resource Conservation - WERC-2019 would be to assess the status quo of municipal, agricultural & industrial wastes in India; identifying new ideas, innovations, solutions, technologies for converting waste-to-energy, alternative fuel and help in reutilization of municipal, agricultural & industrial wastes into viable fuel options, products, solutions adaptable by industrial & civic market. The technical Conference will also provide a platform to Indian & Global companies to share their success stories and to learn from Waste-to-Energy projects running successfully. Since, India is a huge market, it also provides opportunity of investment in these projects under PPP by urban planners, project developers, investors, venture capitalists, private equity and bankers etc.

Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce & Industry (FICCI) along with Petroleum Conservation Research Association (PCRA), Ministry of Petroleum & Natural Gas, Government of India is organizing a Technical Conference on Waste to Energy and Resource Conservation. WERC-2019 brings together best ever stakeholders comprising of waste to energy and waste management CEOs, developers, private equity financiers, technology providers, policy-makers, domain experts, engineers, scientists/researchers, entrepreneurs, equipment suppliers and other professionals on a single platform to discuss waste to energy, fuel conversion & resource management challenges in India and explore conceivable solutions.

Technical Conference on Waste to Energy and Resource Conservation (WERC-2019) – Challenges, Technologies and Adoption

May 30-31, 2019 at Jacaranda Hall
India Habitat Centre, New Delhi

India being the largest growing economy and housing 130 crores people faces a biggest challenge of Waste Management. Rapid Urbanisation, industrialization and changes in living standards over the decades has resulted in increased waste generation in Indian cities, leading to enhanced threats to the environment & health. The country has over 5000 cities & towns which generate Municipal Solid Wastes, Industrial Wastes, Hazardous Wastes, Agricultural Wastes, Bio-Medical Wastes & E-Wastes etc. Industries itself generate huge amount of wastes like paper, glass, metals, cable, wires, plastics goods, e-wastes, oil sludges, emulsions, spent oil, fly ash, pharma, medical wastes, straws - biomass waste, poultry & livestock wastes etc. These wastes can be used by Waste to Energy(WtE) Technology operators, developers, equipment suppliers to present their demonstrated capabilities in design, supply, erection and commissioning of plants & machinery for generating substantial quantity of decentralized energy and conserving resources through recycling and reuse.

The main focus of the two days Technical Conference on Waste to Energy and Resource Conservation - WERC-2019 would be to assess the status quo of municipal, agricultural & industrial wastes in India; identifying new ideas, innovations, solutions, technologies for converting waste-to-energy, alternative fuel and help in reutilization of municipal, agricultural & industrial wastes into viable fuel options, products, solutions adaptable by industrial & civic market. The technical Conference will also provide a platform to Indian & Global companies to share their success stories and to learn from Waste-to-Energy projects running successfully. Since, India is a huge market, it also provides opportunity of investment in these projects under PPP by urban planners, project developers, investors, venture capitalists, private equity and bankers etc.

Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce & Industry (FICCI) along with Petroleum Conservation Research Association (PCRA), Ministry of Petroleum & Natural Gas, Government of India is organizing a Technical Conference on Waste to Energy and Resource Conservation. WERC-2019 brings together best ever stakeholders comprising of waste to energy and waste management CEOs, developers, private equity financiers, technology providers, policy-makers, domain experts, engineers, scientists/researchers, entrepreneurs, equipment suppliers and other professionals on a single platform to discuss waste to energy, fuel conversion & resource management challenges in India and explore conceivable solutions.

Dear Sir,

Sub: Display of 'Asli Tarakki' campaign hoardings in the stadium during the India-New Zealand matches.

As you will agree, to achieve the objective of the Swachh Bharat Mission (Urban), it needs to become a 'people's movement' – a 'jan andolan', with large scale participation of common citizens in the drive towards 'swachhata', and bring about collective behaviour change.

2. In view of the great interest that the Indian public has in cricket, we are of the belief that these matches will serve as a good medium for dissemination of the Swachh Bharat messages.

3. As part of our endeavour to disseminate the message of Swachh Bharat Mission, we have received a proposal from SPR Global Sports Pvt. Ltd. for in-stadia advertisements in 8 cities during the upcoming India-New Zealand Cricket match series. A brief profile of the agency is attached for your reference. (Annexure-I)

4. Moreover, BSNL, a public sector undertaking has also signed up for these series with SPR Global Sports Pvt. Ltd. that provides complete in stadia branding during the matches. The proposal sent by BSNL to the agency is attached for your reference. (Annexure-II)

5. The quotations given by them are as below.

Type	Size	Rate (per match)	Days
Middle Tier (Test Match)	12 ft. X 4 ft.	INR 275000	5
Middle Tier (ODI)	12 ft. X 4 ft.	INR 275000	1

27

6. You are therefore requested to advertise the 'Asli Tarakki' campaign (all 5 advertisements) through this medium by utilising the IEC funds allocated to the states.

With sincere regards,

(Praveen Prakash)
